F.A.Q.

Why is a Japan visa important and valuable?

For those who have a Japan visa in their passport in our country, it becomes easier to get visas for many other countries.

Does submitting documents according to the checklist get a visa?

If that were the case, then out of the 17 billion people in our country, millions of people would apply for a Japan visa every month with their families by preparing documents according to the checklist and getting a visa. Is it really that easy?

Is it necessary to know the Japanese language to go to Japan?

No, not for everyone. Those who want to live in Japan for a long time should know it.

Who should know the Japanese language?

1. Those who want to go to Japan for higher education or employment.
2. Those who want to work in a Japanese organization or company in the country or in Japan.
3. Those who want to live in Japan for business or any other need.
4. Those who want to learn a language course with their future in mind should know it.

What is a Certificate of Eligibility (COE)?

COE is a certificate issued by the Ministry of Justice of Japan that is required for certain categories of visa applications.

Who needs a Certificate of Eligibility (COE)?

Those who want to apply for any long-term Japan visa. They have to apply for the visa with this certificate and other documents.

Is COE really a Pre visa?

COE is not a Pre visa. There is no such thing as a Japan Pre visa. Hundreds of visa applicants still get their visa applications rejected even after having a COE.

Is Visa Guaranteed with a COE?

It is clearly written at the bottom of the COE. "This certificate does not guarantee the entry of the person concerned."
